

You are a detective from a foreign country who has arrived on Long Island to track down a thief at a shopping mall. The thief has left a series of cryptic clues that are intended to help you find out their location inside the mall – as well as the name of the mall itself. Your starting point is the food court. Solving all the clues there will lead you to another store, retracing the thief's steps. Likewise, solving all the clues in each of the stores will lead you to another store from that one, except the store where the thief is hiding. Think you can solve the thief's riddle?

All answers in the puzzle will utilize US English spelling.
